Organisation background	Caer Alyn Archaeology and Heritage Project was set up 6 years ago to inform the local communities in Wales of the heritage in their own backyard. The project's focus is on the long history of the area, from the prehistoric to the modern day. For further information please visit: www.caeralyn.org
Project title	European Connections
Project summary	We would like to link up with heritage projects in Europe to look at the context of their project in relation to ours. This Partnership would provide the opportunity to exchange and develop cultural understanding of each group and exchange good practice in respect of community heritage projects. Over the millennia there has been a great deal of trade between Europe and Britain. This of course has influenced societies and the material cultures of both. It is these connections that we would seek to investigate between each group, offering the opportunity to investigate these connections in a wider context and develop within each group a better understanding of each partner's culture.
